BioWet is a natural, multi-purpose wetting agent, penetrant, and spraying oil designed for crop and field applications. Made from emulsified, food-grade rapeseed oil, it enhances agrichemical performance by reducing drift, improving wetting, and ensuring better coverage on target crops or weeds.

BioWet is suitable for use wherever an oil-based adjuvant is recommended on the label of the agricultural chemical you're applying, unless esterified soil oil adjuvants are specifically excluded. It has been successfully used with a variety of agrichemicals, particularly where an oil-based adjuvant is needed to improve uptake and efficacy. Ideal for use with pesticides, herbicides, and fungicides.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE: In most situations, the recommended application rate is 500ml/100litres of water or 0.5% of spray volume. For optimal results, apply the spray to dry crops or target plants, maintaining a spray pressure of 3-3.5 bar.

Important Application Instructions:

- BioWet must always be pre-mixed with the agricultural chemical and thoroughly stirred to create an emulsion.
- Fill the spray tank to 1/3 volume with water, then add the pre-mixed emulsion of BioWet and the agricultural chemical. Top up the water to the desired level while ensuring continuous agitation.
- If applying multiple agricultural chemicals in one application, use a portion of the BioWet to create a pre-mixed emulsion with each product before adding it to the spray tank. Follow the same process to fill the tank and maintain agitation.
